They came from miles around to the NEW LOCATION at Burrill Lake. Some from as far away as Berridale and Botany Bay (via Gerroa). Bubbles turned up from the mountains. Newcomer Climax (from Botany Bay or somewhere thereabouts) was drug along by Sniffer Dog and even Tree Rooter and Shadow made an appearance after a month or two's absence. There were a couple dozen hanging about the lake edge by the time Easy gave the chalk talk "flat, no hills, runners trail, wankers follow me" Well, it looks flat enough on this map.

westward towards the first arrow. Runners were led out by Lickalotta, looking trim after weeks of training with an assorted bunch of stragglers including GreenFinger Gobbles and CountHerFeet taking up line astern. Due to some confusion, Two Fathers got tangled up among this group (of which more later) with Babbling Brook (noted park runner) Kan Doo, Mighty Aphrodite and (I think) Sniffer and Climax keeping up the pace. After a bit of a meander and heading off under the highway bridge (arrow 2) the runners caught up with the walkers including Infallible, all the PPPPs and now GreenFinger, possibly Dangles, Pop Tart and a bevy of others and then diverged again via a highly suspect and mildly undulating course through the emerging back blocks of what may be called Dolphin Point, before stumbling after Lickalotta (FRB) into a bush track going nowhere and Infallible modestly drew attention to the sparkling sunny day. Then they were off at the paces of a few startled snails heading sorta until sensibly reversing direction and once again filing in behind Easy and the walkers again and heading for the water past a Hash Vista and a gallop along the water's edge at which time there had been a remarkable change in the natural order of things. Two Fathers was at the head of the pack, a position he retained until the drink stop slightly ahead of KanDoo briskly walking. He barely lifted his eyes as he led the blundering herd past the barely clad sunbather (see map) demonstrating an early moonrise. The drink stop emerged and the pack remerged around a few GnTs dispensed efficiently by Meat and his assistants, Doggy Bag, Bunz, Winnie and Energizer.

Thence, suitably lubricated and revived the pack meandered in strung out form into the setting sun and back to the start. Which was of course the finish, stopping only for the obligatory selfie.

A circle formed elliptically, and Meat was awarded for something.

as the stand in GeeEmm (Two Fathers) struggled to maintain order. And sobriety.

The Gin Slut and BlackDog looked on with Bubbles and generally created the normal amount of havoc

And DUI set new standards (predictably low) of sartorial splendour.
