

Run Number: 190 June 2022

Hair: Two Fathers

Weather: Perfect

Afters: Yes.

Score: Quite a few averaging 6.9

It was a perfect early winter day in the girtiferous Malua Bay area. A trail was just waiting for the delectation of the enthusiastic, exclusive ensemble. The GeeEmmm (Haemorrhoid) calmed the crowd and sought guidance and chalk talk from the Hair (and everything else) Two Fathers which turned out to be flour facts and the pack lurched down the driveway and in a generally westerly direction where it soon became possible that if you were headed towards the fire shed it was almost certainly on trail.

The GeeEmm and Too Keen led. The followers followed. The weather gleamed.

Pole Dancer and Double Fister were chattering along slightly astern of the leaders with Dangles, Pop Tart and Two Fathers stringing out a bit as the first check caused more than the usual amount of aimless milling looking for trail. Round the back of the shed, avoiding the first false trail, and a loop onto the track avoiding the temptation of two ways and other distractions ploughing on through the encroaching post-fire black wattle before emerging triumphantly onto the new Upper Malua Bay Heights conurbation and a few new houses before a straightening up past the almost rebuilt bowl and down to verdant grasslands of Albert Bamman park (that's its name) round past the surf club up to the headland walk and several hash vistas with the order of pack unchanged then down the back of some houses then cautiously down the perilous bit of shiggy where the GeeEmm was no bloody help at all waiting to capture shots of tumbling pack proceeding bass backwards down the precipitous pathway

(at which point Pop Tart sensibly took an across country diversion) onto the beauty of Mackenzies Beach to the drink stop where Doggy Bag was waiting with the dray at the drink stop o joy o bliss.

And Mighty Aphrodite in a cunning piece of navigation had also arrived direct from Queenbeyole and avoided the need for messy running and stuff.

After the chips were scoffed and some beers imbibed the pack or most of it walked back to the start. Others who shall be nameless but might have been the GeeEmm and Hair took advantage of motorised transport.

A circle formed. Double Fister reported on the run and awarded it a generous 6.9 or so. Mighty Aphrodite was punished severally for her tardy arrival and walk avoidance technique.

Pop Tart was awarded the Routing Award for leaving the trail and in a relatively rare occurrence received a second award of the champagne tit bell (mildly wasted as she was designated driver) and Pole Dancer was awarded the Dummy for an excellent and impromptu in-circle dummy spit.

A spirited version of the MBH3 anthem was delivered to high choral standards and the circle dissolved and red wine and other libations were carted upstairs. Chili was served and the Brumbies won.

Em tasol.
