The Egalitarian Hash

Where sobriety in moderation is tolerated

Trash Volume: 240

Run Number: 240 August 2026

Hair: CountHerFeet

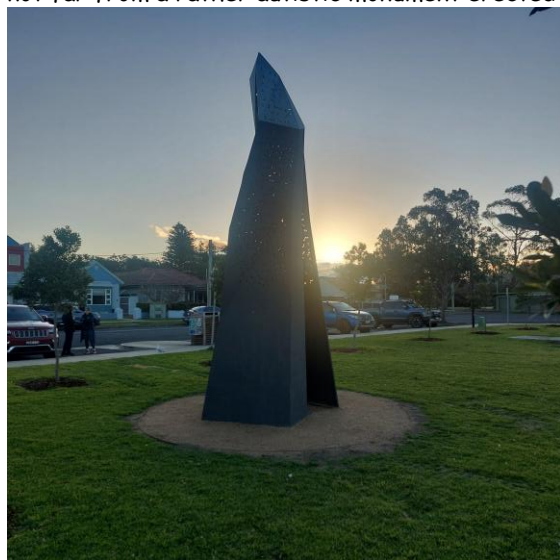

Where: Round the Bay

Weather: Stunning

After: Diggers' Rest (aka Soldiers' Club)

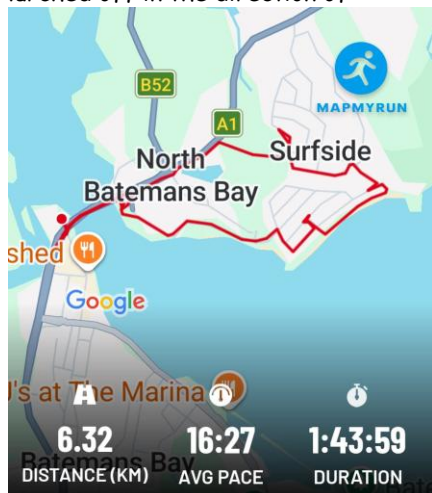

Score: Several

The stand in RA had done the usual unfailingly excellent job fixing up the weather on another barmy winter day. Several noted affletes from places near and far had assembled in the arvo not far from a rather autistic monument erected by the local art appreciation society as a tribute to the Belco Owl. No one took any notice. But I digress.

There were a couple of return knees and a few other crocks waiting for destructions from the virgin hair CountHerFeet (see charges later) to give some useful chalk talk before the pack lurched off in the direction of not comprehending that they were going to have to toddle about 6.32km for an hour or two and expose them selves to highway traffic and other risks to life and limb.

FishFinger led off at a brisk trot past the dunny and up to the bridge

Oops a bit of old stock or at least the newish bit trying out the name of Waalawani as a name for a bridge which unaccountably has not got a name yet but someone is about to conduct a few focus groups to find out if anyone cares and how the hell did I get onto that?

Anyway, Meat and Lickalottapuss were close behind as the pack surged over the crown of Waalawani and down the stairs to another dunny and to the first uninformative three way which sent the front runners (see above) in at least three directions most of them wrong and the path was not rediscovered until the near flamin last Gobbles stumbled on a fourth way past the van park and out around the curvilinear trail through the scenic margins of Surfside. The slightly wounded Biggus was pedalling along in deference to bone spurs or something and barely kept up with KanDoo who was hobbling along astern of LikesGreenShit in company of I think probably Rooster Booster who occasionally broke into a run and maybe Haemorrhoid was somewhere in the mix as the pack found a reason to lurch out onto the sand for a bit of girtiferousness and Biggus cycled disconsolately in the intertidal zone and the sun shone scenically on the Tollgates

Pretty soon after that there was a sharp leftish away from the beach and a meander or two in the direction of back towards the drink stop and start.

There was a bit of a stroll through the parkland marked clearly with bicoloured chalk

And thence to the life-threatening highway passage on root to the drink stop where KanDoo was looking a bit knackered from all the effort a just getting there.

From there it was mere sprint over the bridge (see earlier) back to the start point and circle as the sun and the temperature descended at a rapid rate.

Awards were awarded:

After awarding an inordinately generous 8 for the run, Haemorrhoid got the Routed Award for surviving travel to the Western Extremities of the continent and the Rooted Award for surviving his grandchildren.

Two Fathers was awarded for his contribution to medical science and bicycle-based gravity defiance. Or something.

Charges were few. CountHerFeet was charged for serial evasion of the role of Hair in over 200 runs, on 5 continence and 300 kennels.

Two Fathers got tech on trail (at the circle). I am going to have to start recording others on the phone at great personal risk of further charges as if anyone cares.

Then it was off to the Diggers' Rest where as far as I know no-one was barred.

No communication from Pugwash.

Em tasol.
